Board of Trade at Regular Dinner Meet

The regular dinner meeting of the Wainwright and District Board of Trade was held in the hotel dining room last Wednesday with 25 members present.

Mr. L. W. Smith reported progress on the matter of the projected cheese factory in town, and suggested that the Board enquire further into this matter, He also advised the meeting of the talk which Mr. Rawlison, of Kraft Cheese Co., made to a meeting of farmers which had been held under the sponsorship of the Board of Trade, at which that gentleman had outlined the requirements for the establishment of a successful cheese factory at Wainwright. The speaker also pointed out the best method of organizing for the milk production to supply the factory.

The possible completion of Highway No. 14 to the Saskatchewan border was fully discussed and further action in the matter was outlined to bring the matter to a successful conclusion.

The completion of the highway between Wainwright and Vermilion was also under discussion, and it was decided that the Board should urge for the completion of both these necessary roads during the coming summer.

Mr. F. G. Conroy called attention to the reduced membership this year, and suggested that action be taken at once to double the membership, and also to encourage still large attendance at the regular monthly meetings. (We learn that since the dinner some forty new members have been added to the roll.—Ed.)

Several other matters of importance to the people and merchants of Wainwright were brought before the meeting, and a course of action decided upon, following which the meeting adjourned until the next regular meeting on May 6th next, when it is hoped that a much larger attendance of members will be on hand.

Miss Carleen Brunker Becomes Bride Monday

Wainwright United church was the scene of a very pretty Easter Monday wedding, when Carleen Lenore, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Brunker, became the bride of Walter Charles, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Huntingford.

Rev. A. D. Richard, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony and Miss Beda Nordstrom played the wedding music. During the signing of the register Miss Mona Ganderton very sweetly sang "Yours".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of white sheer in Juliet style, with full skirt and appliqued bodice. Her chapel veil was held in place by a wreath of white rosebuds, and she carried a bouquet of roses and carnations.

Miss Marguerite Brunker attended her sister as bridesmaid, and wore a toe-length dress of bridal-pink sheer over taffeta, trimmed with black baby bows. She carried a shower bouquet of spring flowers.

Mr. Gordon Huntingford brother of the groom acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Leroy Carl and Mr. Maurice Johnson.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Brunker chose a harvest wine jacket frock of silk alpacca with black sail or and rose trimmings, and wore a corsage or roses. Mrs. Huntingford was attired in a rose-tint ensemble, with black accessories. She also wore a corsage of roses.

Following the church ceremony, a reception of thirty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bridal table was set with lace cloth and centered by the six-square wedding cake, lighted by four tapers decorated with pink and white apple blossoms.

Mrs. S. J. Simmons, grandmother of the bride, poured tea, and those assisting were the Misses Hazel Stuart, Margaret Carsell and Glenna Brunker.

For travelling, the bride chose a gold shade dress, with DuBarry coat with gold and brown hat; she wore matching accessories.

The happy couple left later for a motor trip to Edmonton and other western points and on their return will take up residence in Wainwright.

A happy coincidence is that the parents are all school chums of their younger days spent in Marmora, Ont.

Out of town guests at the ceremony included the Misses Jean and Anne Elder, of Saskatoon, cousins of the bride, Miss Esther King, Miss Kay Wyllie and Miss Marion Lane all of Edmonton.

RAIL WORKERS READY FOR EMERGENCY

Vancouver, B.C.—Canadian National Railways workers have been organized for air raid protection to safeguard vital railway installations in British Columbia, with R. W. Wright fire prevention inspector, in charge. Recently over 200 employees and officers from all departments assembled to receive instruction regarding types of incendiary bombs and effective methods of dealing with them. Motion pictures, made in London during raids, illustrated the talk.

Mrs. W. Brunker is leaving on Wednesday for the city where she will be the local delegate to the annual W.I. convention this week end.

One of the children was playing with a knife and another with a rope when the rope caught the knife, whisking it out of the child's hand across Peggy's nose. Inflicting a nasty cut. Peggy was taken to Wainwright and had three stitches inserted.

The weather has been threatening most of the week and it looked, Sunday, as though it had made up its mind to do something. But fortunately, the snow storm which started at noon Sunday quit at night. One consolation is that if we do get some snow it cannot last as long as it would have done had we had it last November.

The W.A. staged a very attractive tea and sale of home cooking in the church basement Saturday. This was well attended and proved very successful.

Roy Evans, Gene Tranmer, Winnifred Pettit, Floyd Kimball, Eileen Pawsey and Mary Phillips were amongest those home for the Easter holidays. Leone and Betty Bransgrove were visiting here.

Mrs. Bessie Pierce was a visitor to town.

Pon Guey's baby had to be taken to Wainwright in a hurry on Sunday. Earl Hillett took them up.

After a tasty lunch served by the V.V.R.'s dancing to the strains of the "Kent and Glass" orchestra was enjoyed until the early hours.

Local Elks Lodge Fete Departing Member

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carsell recently the local Elks held a surprise party for one of their members, Mr. Frank Buck, who has joined the navy. After games and refreshments, Exalted Ruler W. Carsell presented the guest of honor with a suitable token of remembrance from the members of the local lodge, wishing him the best of luck and a safe return home. The recipient replied in a few well-chosen words and offered his thanks for so kind a thought, and the gathering dispersed.

Stresses Need of Increase in Flax Seed

The war in the Pacific has curtailed the supply of vegetable oils. Canada uses about 450,000,000 lbs. of fats and oils (excluding butter) annually. Of this amount about 270,000,000 is composed of vegetable oils These are used as follows:— 130,000,000 lbs. (excluding butter and lard) for edible purposes, 110,000,000 for soap and glycerine, the glycerine is needed in the explosives industry 30,000,000 lbs. for paint and varnish which is needed for painting of tanks guns, ships, etc.

Normally Canada imports about 200,000,000 lbs. to 250,000,000 lbs. of these oils. The import supply is now greatly curtailed so Canada must produce more.

There are only about four crops that can be grown for oil production in Canada; safflower, sunflower, soybeans and flaxseed. Flax is the only one that can be increased appreciably this year. The government has guaranteed a price of $2.25 per bushel basis No. 1 C.W. Fort William. This is two-and-a-half times the price of wheat. If calculated on the price at the farm delivery point, it is about three times the price of wheat. It will therefore be a profitable crop to grow.

To supply the needs of ourselves and our allies it will require about three times 1941 production. It is profitable, and at the same time our patriotic duty to produce flax. The National Barley and Linseed Flaxseed Committee believe that for every acre seeded last year, three should be sown this year.

For information in regard to seed, seed treatment, and cultural practices, see your agricultural representatives, or elevator operator.

Miss Audrey Smith is away to vis it friends at Tofield for a short holiday.

ENGLISH FOLKS ENJOYING FUN TO MAINTAIN MORALE

BY MARGARET BUTCHER

The tea came which, by some miracle of saving and contriving was a truly splendid spread. In fact, it was so good that the kids got down to it right away, and nobody spoke a word for at least half an hour. The only voices heard were those of the grown ups exclaiming greedily, or saying: "Please pass me another of those." How the little girls managed to turn cartwheels after all that passes my comprehension. I am quite sure none of US could have done it to save our lives! Then there were more games and, as the radio did not quite meet the case, they sat me down at the piano for 'Musical Chairs,' assisted by a man who is clever with the drums.

It was an impromptu affair altogether. The drummer and I began to enjoy ourselves so much that we for got all about the infants, and got them running round for about a mile before a managing sort of woman, looking starkly horrified hurried over and implored us to stop. So we came smartly down to earth after our jolly experiments with Colonel Bogey and Star and Stripes. At the end of the session, when I was completely exhausted by 'Sir Roger', and the drum mer brow was limp the smallest girl came forward and presented me with an improvised bouquet of golden chrysanthemums. I accepted it in a manner which — I flatter myself would have done credit to a Lady Mayoress, and the party finished on a note of general satisfaction. Nobody cried; nobody quarrelled, and —most remarkable of all, perhaps — nobody showed any adverse symptoms after that gigantic tea. It was a fine party.

News over the radio is not too good, in parts; but we learned long ago, that bad news is not final news. Dunkirk taught us that. Somebody somewhere everyday, is getting news that seems like the end of everything but people still go on. That young airman's widow, living just up the road, looks neat and self-possessed, and still has a smile to greet friends. It is only when one really looks into her eyes But she is making a go of it, doing her war-work all day and not being a trouble to anybody. In fact, you have to be rather cute at reading behind folks' eyes to see anything at all. I guess there are plenty more like her.

I have noticed one queer thing: the worse things seem at the moment, the more we laugh at our comedians — and the better the comedians become A good show over the radio is immensely popular, and there is no hunting about the roars one hears. They work hard those amazing women and men, and if laughter is what they want they must feel pretty satisfied.

One turns naturally towards nonsense, nowadays, and it feels like a reversion to sanity. After a good laugh one's sense of proportion is quite definitely restored. Those of us who were brought up in a circle where laughter is suspect and nonsense a waste of time (and I have to count myself among those) realize years after, that though life was terribly earnest, during those days, it was far from real.

It is only when one gets right away from too much seriousness that living becomes an actual thing and the bogeys drop back into their proper places. The most serious people one can remember are suddenly seen, in the light of richer experiences as the silliest! They had so little contact with real life that they saw only one side of it — the gloomy and transient side. Troubles, who one comes to think of if are passing things; for one ache there are a hundred agreeable experiences, if one looks for them. I often think that, when all this is over and done with, among the names of our heroes and great men there will be the names of those hard-working souls who keep our spirits up for us.

An old friend of mine — an actor I have lost sight of for the past sixteen years or so — is now playing in an amusing series on the radio, and the other day I dropped him a line, care of the B.B.C. He replied at once, evidently pleased to hear from me, but inclined to bemoan the fact that, after twenty years of playing romantic heroes, he has now 'come down to farce,' I soon sent off an answer to that! I told him that he was proving himself a first-rate comedian and thanked him for many a wholesome chuckle so I hope he feels better about it. There are plenty of dashing, romantic heroes in real life nowadays, praise be! So maybe we can afford that particular switch-over. After all, when you come to think of it, we're fighting — for one reason — so that the kids of today and tomorrow shall be able to laugh as they please, and not be pushed in to gaol for poking well-deserved fun at some overbearing pompous booby in high office.

Interesting Talk on Air-Raid Precautions

Dr. E. Braithwaite and Ambulance officer E. C. Emmott were here on Wednesday last, when a real good attendance listened with attention to an address by the latter speaker on air-raid defence of the town and district

Many points were brought out, as to the manner which would be required to give all assistance possible should such be needed at any time, and the speaker outlined the different duties which will devolve upon those in charge — if an air-raid alarm is ever given here.

During the afternoon of the same day, these gentlemen held tests for those who had been studying first-aid and ambulance work during the past few months, and expressed themselves as most highly satisfied with the results attained.

At the close of the evening session Mrs. F. E. McLeod, who has acted as secretary throughout the series was the recipient of a handsome flow er epergne, to which presentation she suitably replied before the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Although more than 16,000 women in Canada are anxious to join the Canadian Women's Army Corps and the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force, it is not yet known how many of them will meet the army and medical requirements. Already more than 1,000 women have been recruited in the C.W.A.C. and 900 in the C.W.A.A.F. Above two members of the C.W.A.C.S. in their smart khaki uniforms and beach brown neckties are shown filling a kit bag with the equipment supplied to each recruit.

THE PLEBISCITE

So much fire and passion has been expended in protesting any need of a plebiscite, that the public is in danger of viewing the actual day of voting with some apathy. This would be very dangerous. The government needs every "yes" vote in Canada. The soldiers now overseas must have the support implied in such a vote, says the High River Times.

Opinions have differed widely on whether the government should spend time and money in going to the country over this question of releasing it from its pre-election pledge not to conscript men for overseas. But the plebiscite is to be taken. Refusal to vote because one was not in sympathy with taking the plebiscite, would merely strengthen the negative vote which will be registered. Neglect to vote because the plebiscite will carry in any event" is no less a mistake.

This is an important issue. Those closely in touch with certain sections of the east, see a strong element numerically likely to vote against releasing the government from its no-conscription-for-overseas pledge. Only a tremendous majority in favor of release, will be impressive. It will also clear the atmosphere and put into back and white the sentiments of the Canadian people.

Out in the west, the matter of conscription for overseas has not been an imortant issue. Almost all of those enlisting have enlisted unconditionally for service wherever most needed. It is the same in most parts of Canada. But in order to make use of the country's trained services, the government must be free to move any troops to any point where they are most needed for defence of the allied cause. Even military authorities probably do not know from mouth to mouth, where the zone of greatest usefulness may be. At present juncture, it would appear that Canadians are expected to play an important part in second front action in Europe. This means reinforcements to a degree which cannot be estimated.

There are other spheres of action which cannot be overlooked in any survey of battlefronts. There are those who urge the sending of troops to Australia, and certainly there is a tremendous desire to give military support to this gallant sister nation. This continent itself, whether on American or Canadian territory, is also vulnerable.

It is not for the uninformed to say where Canadian troops can best serve the battle against Axis forces, nor how their limited number can best be distributed. That must be left to the counsels of the allied nations. But it is the duty of every Canadian citizen to register his vote in releasing the government from bonds which would seriously hamper war effectiveness as it develops in intensity. Do not neglect to vote on plebiscite.

TRADE IN YOUR HOME TOWN

Local merchants are going to feel the pinch of shortage of goods more and more as time goes on cutting down their possibility of profits while their expenses of doing business keep on soaring. That is a good reason why now — more than ever — is the time to be loyal to your home town merchant. Spend every dollar with him — he is the one who will keep the community going during these strenuous times. — Hutchison Leader.

SHIP THEM BACK —NOT WANTED HERE

One thing that should be done when the war ends is to gather up all of the enemy aliens in this country and ship them back where they came from. They do not appreciate the freedom in this country and should be compelled to return and live under their dictatorships in their home country. — Ex.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

"So far this war has been for us a war in which industrial workers have played an almost larger part than the members of the fighting services," says Sir Wilson Jameson, Chief Medical Officer of the British Ministry of Health, in a recent bulletin received by the Health League of Canada.

Special arrangements have had to be made for medical care and welfare work in the new factory areas of England, according to Sir Wilson's report. He notes that after the evacuation of Dunkirk and the collapse of France in May 1940, a tremendous effort was put forth by industry. Longer and longer hours were worked, and it is on the record that in many factories there was actually a higher hourly output of work.

"These conditions, as we knew from experience could not last and gradually output began to fall as a result of strain and fatigue," Sir Wilson explains. "Time began to be lost through sickness and injury and workers became stale." Had the long hours continued there would undoubtedly have been a serious effect on health and efficiency. So a reduction of hours was introduced and some provision was made for holidays. It is true to say there is little to gain and probably more to lose when the week ly hours of work exceed sixty to sixty-five for men and fifty-five to sixty for women. In spite of what our people have been through I am glad to have the assurance of the Senior Medical Inspector of Factories that he finds no evidence that in general the health of the industrial worker has suffered materially.

Sir Wilson admits that war conditions have naturally resulted in the increase of certain industrial poisonings. The most noteworthy increases are associated with the processes involved in the manufacture of T.N.T. and result in aniline poisoning, toxic jaundice and in poisoning from nitrous fumes. There is, too, Sir Wilson admits an increase of carbon mon oxide poisoning owing to the greater use of blast and other furnaces in the making of munitions. The Ministry of Labor has issued an order making medical supervision, nursing and welfare services compulsory in dangerous munitions factories. According to Sir Wilson Jameson, over 100 full-time and nearly 400 part-time doctors have now been appointed in munitions factories as well as very large numbers of nurses.

PLANTING ORDERS

Flowers and vegetables divide themselves into three general groups — Hardy, semi-hardy and tender. In the seed catalogue and on the packets these are the general descriptions used, and this information provides the key to planting time in any part of the Dominion.

The first group can be put in just as soon as the soil is fit to work, this means when one can get out and dig without raising any mud. Soil fit for working or planting should crumble, not pack into a ball, the experts point out.

Among the very hardy are spinach lettuce, radish and peas, among the vegetable and most of the poppies common, batchelor buttons and sweet peas among the flowers. Late, severe frost will not hurt these things. Usually the sooner they are planted the better.

In the semi-hardy line, vegetables and flowers which will stand a light frost or two would be carrots, beets beans, potatoes and corn in the vegetable line, and sinnias, calendulas, calliopsis in the flowers.

The tender plants are those which will not stand any frost at all. If above ground when the night suddenly turns cold and the mercury falls below 32 degrees then only a miracle will save them from blackening. In this delicate line there are the melons cucumbers, peppers, pumpkins among the vegetables, and gladiolus, dahlias cannas, in flowers.

MODERN VEGETABLES

Scientists have been giving us many improvements in vegetables. Their work has been carried out in two directions; first, the introduction of vegetables unfamiliar to most Canadians, and, second and probably more important, vast improvement in those varieties that have been grown in this country for years.

Corn is a good example. At one time it was possible to get only one variety of Bantam. Cobs were short and season also. Now there are offered three or four different Bantam types, some extra early, some regular season, some late. Cobs have been lengthened, kernels made bigger. One can enjoy the finest table corn for over a month instead of but a week or two as in the old days.

Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

The Government plans and proposals for the guidance of the farmers of the West are now issued. The plans are founded upon the undoubted fact that Britain is short of certain kinds of foodstuffs, and that Canada is short of oil.

In principle, therefore, the policy of the Government is to endeavour to have less acreage sown to wheat because there is a large surplus on hand — and to have as much acreage as possible devoted to the production of flax to produce oil, and to coarse grains which can be fed to livestock to produce bacon, cheese, butter, milk and eggs, which animal products the British people sorely need. The Government policy is not intended to take any land out of production; indeed farmers can best help Britain and Canada's war effort by putting every possible acre into production, but as much as possible into flax and coarse grains.

Needless to point out each acre of land will produce the utmost quantity and quality of any grain crops if farmers will take care to use good seed. Nothing will so tend to improve the quality of crops and the yield per acre as the use of some Registered and Certified seed, if possible sealed in individual sacks.

Following factors have tended to raise price:— Crop prospects continue unfavorable in Europe owing to severe weather and war conditions— U.S. shipments of wheat and flour continue to Mexico—It is believed that Russia will require large additional quantities of wheat.

Following factors have tended to lower price:— Generous rains have fallen recently in Argentina — U.S. winter crop estimates have been revised upward by private crop experts —Foreign crop experts predict world wheat supplies available for export in 1942 will be the highest on record.

BIGGER CHEQUES FOR PENSIONERS

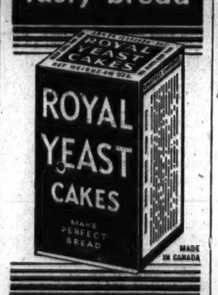

Alberta old age pensioners and blind pensioners will receive the extra $5 special allowance passed at the recent session of the legislature in their April cheques, A. Blackie, superintendent of the provincial old age pensions branch announced Tuesday. Mr. Blackie said pensioners would receive the additional amount about the end of April or first of May, as the cheques are mailed about two days before the end of the month.

Approximately 10,887 old age pensioners and 213 blind pensioners will receive the extra $5, which boosts their monthly pensions to $25. Old age pensioner must be 70 years or over to be eligible for the pension; pensions are paid to blind persons at the age of 40 years or over.

The cost of the pensions increase is $6000,000 a year.

WORLD'S WEEK

BY HAROLD L. WEIR

Associate Editor of the "Edmonton Bulletin" and author of the daily column "From the News."

Harold L. Weir

The most notable current event is the emergence of the United States as a nation on the offensive breathing fire and thunder toward Japan from Australia, and the promise of future unpleasantness to Germany from the British Isles.

Many had foreseen the necessity for the United States assuming greater responsibility for the pacific area. Many hoped to see closer co-ordination between the British Commonwealth and the United States. Actually this co-ordination is seen in a specialized form in the manner in which Australia and the United States are co-operating.

Basically, there is a feeling that we are all in this together and only united effort can defeat the Axis. There is also a feeling in Britain — completely devoid of bitterness — similar to that any parent might feel when its child, however grown up, turns to others for help the parent cannot give.

The weeks events seem to justify the prediction, to Germany and to the oppressed peoples of Europe that once the immense manpower of the United States has thrown its weight into the war, the Axis is doomed.

The activity of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, as supreme commander and Lt. Gen George H. Brett, as deputy commander of the allied forces in the southwest Pacific, headquartered in Australia and of Lt. Gen Joseph W. Stilwell to command the 5th and 6th Chinese armies in Burma, are tributes to American military training and leadership.

While the anticipated Japanese attacks are awaited, attention has been turned to the naval battle of the Java sea.

The courage of the units involved and the daring leadership of the Dutch naval chief are applauded. But the lack of air protection has raised again the old question of why reinforcements were too little and too late.

This is pertinent now since Singapore has not been forgotten. The British government was again asked in parliament why a full account had not been received.

The direction of strategy continues to be the object of criticism. Critics have been given ample ammunition by the interview from India of Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander of India and Burma, in which he admitted that there had been mistake in the preparation training and handling of British troops and in the slow mess of reinforcements and supplies to reach vital areas.

Reinforcements from the middle east, he said, were too few, had been particularly trained for a different kind of warfare had arrived too late and were not employed to the best advantage.

Burma, India, the middle east and the British Isles now seem clearly to be Britain's responsibility.

Into these areas must be thrown the full weight of British forces while Russia engages the main German strength on the continent and the United States hold Japan in the Pacific.

This week in India has been devoted to conferences with Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal and leader of the House of Commons, who is carrying a plan for Dominion status.

So far, the atmosphere there promises to be receptive to the proposals he carries. The military organization is being tightened under Sir Archibald and Admiral Sir Geoffrey Layton, British commander-in-chief in Ceylon.

APRIL CHICKS

FOR WINTER EGGS

Not all good winter laying hens are hatched in the previous April, but no doubt most of them are hatched before May 15th. Maturity may be hastened or retarded slightly by certain feeding practices but no feeder is able to induce late hatched undeveloped pullets to lay eggs in early winter. On the other hand, pullets hatched too early may begin to lay before they can be placed in winter quarters and the move often stops laying and results in a prolonged rest period unprofitable to the owner, says E. Van Nice, Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask.

It is important to select the pullets early in the fall which are wanted for winter layers and place them in permanent winter quarters before laying starts. These pullets should be housed separately from older stock and given four square feet of floor space per bird in a properly ventilated house.

In an egg producing plan, old hens must give place to the pullets as the first year of production is the highest in a well managed flock. The old hens may well be used for table purposes, canned for meat or sold on the market before pullets need to be housed for the winter. Of course in a breeding flock, the old birds are necessary with their eggs records and pedigrees but in the average farm flock such detailed work is not often advisable.

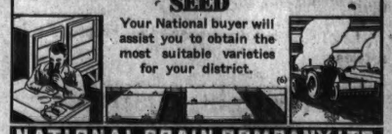

Many farmers eliminate the need for having male birds in the flock, also the need for culling breeding stock and the many difficulties of hatching by purchasing chicks from a commercial hatchery each year. Most hatcheries supply chicks at reduced prices both early and late in the season but in buying chicks for winter egg production the slogan may well be "April chicks for winter eggs".

A very satisfactory home made laying mash for pullets, thoroughly tried at the Experimental Station at Scott, Sask., may be made up as follows: Two parts wheat chop, one part barley chop, one part oat chop and one part meat scrap, supplemented with the usual scratch grain, grit, shell and green feed, and cod liver or other suitable feeding oil.

Helping To Keep Prices Reasonable

High taxes help to guard the country against unreasonable rises in the cost of living: They divert money from unnecessary spending for peace-time goods to Government spending for essential war-time material.

Saving money, practised by thousands of thrifty depositors has a similar effect: It helps to keep prices from soaring by decreasing the demand for non-essential, peace-time commodities.

Thus, when you save money in a savings account, you benefit yourself and the country. You will need to save, not only for family and personal emergencies, but to pay taxes and to buy war securities. Saving today is a patriotic service.

MODERN EQUIPMENT WINS THE DAY

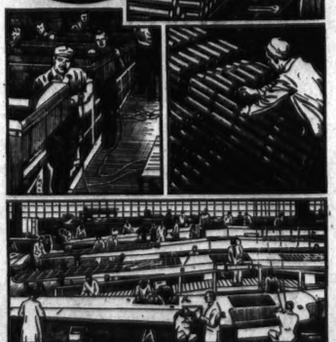

THAT the prodigious task of providing the foodstuffs for an Empire at war can be undertaken by Canadian agriculture with less man-power than ever before is due to the high degree of mechanization of the farm which had been reached before the outbreak of war.

Massey-Harris leadership in the developing and building of such labor-saving equipment for the farm is recognized throughout the world, and has resulted in an enviable reputation for this great Canadian Company wherever grain is grown.

It is but natural, therefore, that a Company with such great resources in plant, skill and experience should be chosen for the production of various munitions of war. Several types of shell, aircraft wings and parts, and equipment for military transports are being turned out with the skill and efficiency which have made the name Massey-Harris famed throughout the years for products of highest quality.

Massey-Harris is proud of its part in providing the implements so essential in modern farming under war conditions and in furnishing munitions and equipment so vital to the success of our fighting forces.

VITAMIN B1 FOR STEADY NERVE

Feeling cranky? Do you snap at your relatives and friends? Do you start at your own shadow or spend a sleepless night over every item of adverse war news? What you probably need is Vitamin B1.

Nutritionists have learnt that Vitamin B1 has a remarkably strengthening effect on the nervous system. And there is no need to rush off to the drug store and buy pills or medicine, because B1 can be taken in sufficient quantity in ordinary everyday food, along with all the other B vitamins, which are also needed.

The richest sources are cereals, milk, liver and heart, dried peas and beans, and wheat germ. The Nutrition Services of the Department of Pensions and National Health advise that whole grain bread or that made from "Canada Approved" flour should be eaten in preference to white. Oat meal and other whole grain cereals are also better than too much macaroni, rice and other processed cereal foods.

Another good way to insure a larger intake of Vitamin B1 is to serve potatoes baked or boiled in their jackets, and to increase the family consumption of milk.
